ORGANIZE YOUR FINANCES IN ONE EASY LOCATION

The Financial Counselor Notebook is a tool to help couples share information about their finances. It's an opportunity for single people to organize and get control of their finances in one easy location.

It's a helpful tool in case of an emergency. If the house is on fire, grab your Financial Counselor Notebook on your way out. You can rebuild your financial future with the information it contains. If there is a tragedy that involves a disability or death, the information is readily available for those in charge.

Being organized will make you more comfortable when traveling, knowing those left behind are well informed. There are many reasons and benefits for using The Financial Counselor Notebook. It will inspire you to set goals and objectives and review your performance! So how do you get started? We look at where you are now.

The Data Collection process is very important to the accuracy and quality of the reports that are generated using the input worksheets. Begin by collecting as much information as possible for financial analysis:

- Bank Statements
- Pay Check Stubs
- Tax Returns
- Pension Plan Statements and Summary Plan Description if available.
- IRA Statements
- Investment Statements
- Wills and/or Family Trusts
- Insurance Policies with annual statements if available.

The Financial Counselor Notebook will help you gain control of your finances and Win the "Money Game." Here you will find the principles of sound decision-making and the information you need to handle banking, credit and mortgage choices, do tax and financial planning and make investment decisions.

Comments and Exercise

A Statement of Financial Position, also known as the Balance Sheet, is a "snap shot" of your present financial position. It creates the bottom line, known as Net Worth. This figure can be used to measure the progress of your financial growth. In addition, it's an opportunity to review the balance between your assets and liabilities.

Use realistic numbers when creating your Statement of Financial Position as if the items were sold today for cash. Try to account for everything you own and owe.

As you create your Statement of Financial Position, you should collect statements of your assets and liabilities. These statements should be inserted into the appropriate section of this notebook.

As you grow financially each year, you can "move into" a new Financial Counselor Notebook and keep this year's notebook as a record. In this way you will create your own financial history for review and perspective. Include a copy of the current tax return as well. You'll find that it's fun to be able to measure your financial growth and progress.

In addition, working with the Goals & Objectives section of The Financial Counselor Notebook can help set future goals and bring growth and communication to a relationship. It's an opportunity to share information and grow together!

Let's Get Started

Complete the input worksheets:

- The Statement of Financial Position
- Monthly Income Projections
- Expenses Forms Part 1 & 2

This information will be organized and analyzed as a part of a working financial plan. The input worksheets can be used with the Financial Counselor Notebook software to generate detailed cash flow analysis and the Statement of Financial Position.

Working with a qualified advisor, this data can provide the details to help you make better decisions about money.

THE SIX AREAS OF FINANCIAL PLANNING

1. Income Allocation:

Where does your money come from and where does it go?

- Savings and Investments
- Fixed Expenses
- Variable Expenses

2. Risk Management

What risks are you exposed to that could sink your financial ship? Risk management addresses insurance issues.

3. Investing for Wealth Accumulation

Save money for specific goals, on purpose and make informed decisions. These investments tend to be known as non-qualified monies. They are usually after tax investment dollars.

4. Tax Planning

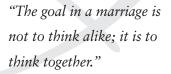

The government is in partnership with you. Review and understand your 1040 return. Know that we have two tax systems: The income tax and the estate & gift tax.

5. Retirement Planning

Build net worth through systematic savings and invest it wisely. These dollars are referred to as qualified money since they are usually in a qualified retirement plan.

6. Estate Planning

How your estate passes can be in your control. It is important to understand how title affects ownership and the rights of a beneficiary designation. Address guardianship issues for young children. Which estate planning documents should you have? Plan for the worst case scenario and you'll find peace of mind.
